

I am relieved I live in WI, I hated coming home after working about 11 hours a day to a ringing phone, running to the phone thinking something may have happened to my child away at college, only to have someone trying to sell me something. Then you could not get them off the phone when you tell them "NO". I believe if they really want to sell anything it should sent through the mail so we can read what it is and see all the fine print. I STRONGLY believe WI should be able to keep the no-call list as is.
